

FENOUIL RAISES FUNDS FOR AREA ORGANIZATIONS

Pearl District Restaurant Makes Contributions to Better its Community

PORTLAND – Fenouil, an urban French brasserie in the Pearl District, has donated hundreds of hours of service and more than $10,000 in food to local non-profit organizations this year.

“Service is important to Fenouil and its employees,” says general manager Michael Giles. “From our customers to our communities, we believe genuine involvement in service contributes to a better and stronger society.”

Examples of Fenouil’s donations to the community this year include:

- $2,000 donation to the Portland’s Alliance Française’s annual Bastille Day celebration, which had a record attendance of 6,000. The restaurant also provided food for the day.
- Participation in several benefits and auctions including the Oregon Humane Society’s annual Fetch Gala, contributing food for more than 300 guests.
- Fundraising dinner host for the Morrison Child and Family Services’ annual Cooking for Kids dinner series. In addition, Fenouil’s auction item yielded $3,300 for the organization.
- Approximately $1,100 contribution of food to the Cascade AIDS Project’s annual Art Auction.
- Significant food donation to the forthcoming Three Rivers Land Conservancy’s 6th Annual Wine and Land benefit at the Oregon Golf Club.
- More than $1,500 in gift certificates donated to miscellaneous organizations and auctions.

About Fenouil

Fenouil, an urban brasserie in Portland, Ore., combines the best of classic French cuisine with the inventive use of flavors and ingredients from nearby European countries. From wood-fired duck breast with armagnac soaked prunes to cider poached halibut cheeks and wild boar filet, the Fenouil menu also pays homage to local producers.
